A New Chapter Begins

Today, One Raffles Place celebrates the grand opening of its second tower which will add about 360,000 square feet of prime Grade A office space to Singapore's Central Business District. Towers One and Two, together with the retail mall, are known as One Raffles Place.

A rich history

Opened by then Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew in 1988, One Raffles Place Tower One was the tallest building in the world outside the United States. It was designed by Pritzker Prize-winning architect Kenzo Tange, and has been home to many successful companies from home and abroad.

The legacy continues

Designed by Paul Tange, son of the late Kenzo Tange, Tower Two is a 38-storey modern crystalline tower. It complements the design of the existing tower, and yet reinterprets with its own expression.

A certified BCA Green Mark Platinum Development, Tower Two encompasses environmentally friendly features such as photovoltaic cells and rainwater harvesting, as well as enhanced security measures and business-friendly features such as column-free floor plates and business continuity services.

The opening of Tower Two signifies a new step in the evolving history of Singapore's most established commercial district, and builds on the legacy created by One Raffles Place Tower One.

OUR HEARTFELT CONGRATULATIONS ON THE OPENING OF ONE RAFFLES PLACE TOWER 2
